

Mark out a relay track and separate children into teams. Children will be running a relay, but instead of running they will be sliding like crabs.

The first child slides up and back, and has to high-five the next child in line.

Each child does the same until the whole team has finished.